

This evening is designed for you as an employer, to arm yourself with the information you need to understand the rewards and responsibilities that come with being an employer of an Army Reserve soldier.

You'll have a chance to hear the latest update on how the Territorial Forces work with employers - to the benefit of your business - and of the positive effects that an employee's Army career can have within any workplace.

You'll also be treated to a display of some of the most up to date weaponry and kit used by the New Zealand Army.

Army Reserve soldiers bring the valuable and unique skills they learn and practice in the Army back to their civilian workplaces.
